

EICHARDT'S BAR

Welcome to the iconic Eichardt's bar. A historic venue dating back to 1859. Originally a woolshed, the gold rush created an opportunity for a hotel and bar. The hotel prospered and a town built around it. Eichardt's bar has been a focal point in the town ever since. It has evolved many times, at times the bar stretched across the entire ground floor and there have been nightclubs based upstairs. After the flood in 1999 the bar was turned into the cosy beautifully designed tapas bar you are now enjoying. We ensure highly professional staff offering extensive wine knowledge, exquisite cocktails and great service.

Terroir - flavour profile given to wine from its unique growing location and climate.

At Eichardt's we believe this applies to all foods. That is why wherever possible we source from small local growers who put the same level of love into growing the food as we are putting into cooking it. Our chefs use their local knowledge to forage what we can, for example wild thyme from Gibbston, walnuts from Lake Hayes and mushrooms from Moke Lake. We endeavour to make our own end products. We cure our own meats, we produce our own sourdough with wild Wakatipu yeast. This is all to bring the unique Otago flavours to the fore.

PREMIUM GIN AND TONIC PAIRINGS

Here at Eichardts we really do appreciate the craft and artistry of distillation as much as anyone, and gin very much falls in at the top end of craft distillation

Gin evolved from genever in the 17th Century, a Dutch/Belgian liquor, gin became widespread throughout London and the rest of England in the late 17th and early 18th Centuries, a period known as the gin craze

Many different varieties and styles have been produced over many years throughout England and many other countries including styles such as Old Tom, London Dry, Rhubarb, Damson, 'pink', Spiced, Violet and Sloe gin

Nowadays there are thousands all over the World and gin is booming again, the last decade has seen the 'gin craze' kick in once more & tonic has played a huge role in it's popularity

Here we focus on the London Dry and Pot Still styles of gin and look at some of our favourite examples.. we pair them up with premium tonic waters from Fever Tree.

Interesting fact: the word gin is a short version of the old English word genever which is a variant of the Dutch word jenever.. ultimately all derive from juniperus; latin for juniper, gins predominant botanical

- No3 & Fever-Tree Elderflower, Apple, Rosemary, Blueberry 18
 A beautiful and smooth gin from Berry Bros, with juniper at its heart with three fruit and three spice botanicals, distilled in copper pot stills. Served with an elderflower tonic.
- Hendricks & Fever-Tree Mediterranean, Cucumber, Mint, Peppercorn 18
 An amazingly refreshing gin from Scotland. A product of small batch distillation in pot stills, with rose petal & cucumber giving lots of fresh and floral notes
- Tanqueray No.10 & Fever-Tree Light, Lime, Grapefruit & Pomegranate 18
 Tanqueray No.10 is a small batch gin distilled with whole citrus fruits and select botanicals. “the ultimate gin” packed with citrus flavours. The quality speaks for itself.
- Scapegrace Gold & Fever-Tree Indian, Orange, Thyme & Clove 18
 A full-bodied gin, navy strength with 13 botanicals including a unique addition of tangerine peel. Paying tribute to traditional gin production but still a little rebellious.
- Black Robin Rare & Fever-Tree Light, Strawberry, Lime, Basil 18
 A New Zealand gin inspired by the rare & endangered Black Robin; citrus notes are evident on the palate, with a peppery finish from the horopito gives this gin a unique complexity.
- Monkey 47 & Fever-Tree Aromatic, Cinnamon, Orange & Star Anise 19
 An unusual yet highly acclaimed gin from the Black Forest in Germany, distilled with 47 botanicals including the relatively unknown lingonberries, and bottled at 47% abv.
- Source Barrel Aged & Fever-Tree Indian, Citrus, Coriander Seed, Flowers 19
 A rich and complex gin from the Cardona Valley, mellowed with barrel-ageing in seasoned wines casks from top local wineries. Rosehip & juniper at it’s heart with citrus notes.

BRING BACK THE CLASSICS

At Eichardt's Bar we are very passionate about our mixed drinks, in this section we go back to the roots and celebrate the classic cocktails in their infinite glory

Much of our menu, and menus the world over are inspired by the classics. And modern cocktails owe much to pioneering bartenders like the famous 'Jerry Thomas' in the mid to late 1800's, whom was amongst the first bartenders to begin creating mixed drinks as we know them today

Also many cocktails were created during the Prohibition Era, 1920-1933, United States, as speak-easy clubs selling, poor quality illegal liquor, often mixed the spirits with various ingredients to mask the harsh alcohol. Giving rise to a huge cocktail boom

Every month we list 3 classic drinks that have inspired us and we invite our guests to join us taking a glance back in time, hoping to reinvigorate these somewhat forgotten classics. We're confident you will enjoy them as much as we do, and maybe learn a little about their history too...

The Scofflaw $19

A true prohibition classic. This appropriately named tippie was named after the coined term for those who secretly sipped cocktails during the prohibition era. The Scofflaw was created in the infamous Harry's Bar in Paris in 1924. A fantastic combination of bourbon, dry vermouth, fresh lemon juice, orange bitters and grenadine. Destined for a comeback..

La Louisiane $19

Considered a hybrid between the Sazerac and a Vieux Carré, the lesser known 'Cocktail a La Louisiane' appears to be so obscure as to barely have been documented in many places. It is thought that one of the few places to find the original recipe is in the 1937 publication of 'Famous New Orleans Drinks and How to Mix 'Em'. Comprising of rye whiskey, sweet vermouth and Benedictine in an absinthe rinsed glass, this drink makes no apology for its booziness, but please drink responsibly!

The Pendennis $19

Originating from the Pendennis Club in Louisville, Kentucky which opened in 1881, and remains alive and well today, this delicious concoction may shock some who would expect a drink coming from the region to be full of bourbon or rye. In this drink, whose creator and story remains a bit of a mystery, dry gin is teamed with apricot liqueur, Peychaud's bitters and lime, to create what we're sure will become one of your new favourite drinks for summer.

Champagne Cocktail
$35

A fountain of bubbles.
Sugar cube, bitters, cognac and of course Champagne Bollinger

The Backyard Bellini
$24

A refreshing Kiwi take on a Bellini. An Eichardt's classic off the menu but still requested by our regulars. feijoa vodka, elderflower liqueur and apple juice, topped with Gibbston Valley Extra Brut

OUR SIGNATURE DISH

The Eichardt's legendary seafood chowder is an unassailable signature dish for Eichardt's. Chock full of South Island seafood including scallops, mussels, clams and shrimp, the chowder has become an institution in its own right. Many guests having been recommended the chowder in far off lands. The chowder is available all year round and in tasting size portions for an evening, with regulars ready to riot if it ever should come off the menu.

The chowder is best matched with a chardonnay or sauvignon blanc, but a beer or pinot never disappoint.

THE OTAGO PINOT NOIR EXPERIENCE

$40

We offer you a chance to sample 3 great examples of pinot noir against each other, 3 sub regions showcasing the different styles of Central Otago. Central Otago is the most noted pinot noir region to emerge in the last 25 years. Virtually pollution and disease free with a great hot days and cold nights
(Perfect pinot growing weather)

The vines are now old enough to truly express the terroir leading to clear sub regions with their own distinct characters. Rugged landscapes with drier soils make the pinot vines work to find the water which helps to define the unique flavours

WHISKY TASTING FLIGHTS

Scottish Flight $30

An introduction to 3 of the 5 distinctly different single malt whisky producing regions of Scotland. Speyside, Highland, Islay

Irish Flight $30

Distilling and whiskey production is going through a renaissance in Ireland. It is also home to a diverse range of styles, techniques and approaches to whiskey production. Here we explore three different styles of Irish whiskey, namely; Single Malt, Single Pot Still, Small Batch Grain

Japanese Flight $30

Japanese whisky owes much to the organic chemist, Masataka Taketsuru, not only did he found the Nikka Distillery, but he founded Japan's first whisky industry. Here we take a look at three different styles of whisky produced by Nikka

North American Flight $25

The world of North American whiskey is a wonderfully complex place. Here we explore bourbon and rye whiskey with a focus on the variation of the base cereal and mash bill; Corn, Rye, Wheat & Malted Barley

New Zealand Flight $35

Although New Zealand whisky may still be a relatively new player on the global whisky scene, it has been producing whisky for some time. New Zealand is one of only five countries to produce a 30yr old whisky, after Ireland, Scotland, Japan and America.. We think you'll be pleasantly surprised with these three assorted styles

GUEST WHISKY DISTILLERY TASTING

Featuring

The Glenfiddich Distillery, Speyside, Scotland

“For 20 years, William Grant lived feeding a dream: create the best whiskey in the valley.

In the summer of 1886, with the help of his nine children - seven men and two women - William ventured into fulfilling the ambition of his life so that, together, they built a distillery by hand; stone by stone. After a whole year of hard work, the distillery was ready and William called it Glenfiddich, which means Deer Valley in Gaelic.

Passion, determination and avant-garde spirit continue, today, being our guide.

Glenfiddich is one of the few distilleries of a single malt that continue to belong to a single family and is also the one that produces the most awarded single scotch whiskey in the world. It is even the living image of the integrity and avant-garde spirit of our founder and also a legacy of generations.

This is our story..”
